

Seed Savers - About Us

In the summer of 2022, the Northeastern Wisconsin Master Gardeners Association was invited to participate in the planning of a seed library for Brown County. Our association has been actively involved in the Steering Committee, ordering seeds, creating envelopes for our seeds and organizing seed packaging events. We were able to have many different educational opportunities at the Brown County Seed Library Launch in March of 2023.

We offer ongoing education, online and in person seed saving training, as well as publishing a monthly newsletter. We have introduced the One Seed, One Community National Program and will support community members through the process of seed planting to seed harvesting. Our association is excited to work with Brown County residents to help us all reclaim the historical skill of seed saving!
